"Seniors of 1985"

"Juniors — Class of 86"

To the Seniors . . .

The bells of joy ring loud tonight
As we shed our final tears
Memories peek in through the windows
Bringing back the years
The times we've spent together
Have been the best by far
How we celebrate this night of nights
Beneath the shining stars
As you begin seeking life-long goals
We step up to take your place
But the images that you have left behind
Create a non-replenished space
Much too quickly, the time has passed
So we all just want to say
May God bless you day by day
And fulfil your dreams in his own way.

Grads Before . . .

Get Real!

Oh Dear?

I don't think I can do this . . .

... During ...

and After

Ha! I got it.

Told you we didn't need chemistry.

Party time

Get out of my FACE.

THE GRADUATING CLASS OF '85

For twelve years we've all looked forward to this day.

Somehow, now I just don't feel that way.
Every day that goes by, I realize that I am one more day closer to the time I may never see any of you again.

Realizing that is hard for me and us graduating is hard to believe.
All the times we've called each other every little name.

But the next day things are always back the same.

For some of us, we have to admit there were a million times, we wanted to just give up and quit.

Hating the teachers and principal, too.
Mainly, because they tried to tell us what was right, and what to do.

Regardless of how we feel, there's a bond between those of us who have been together all twelve years.

Through those twelve years, there have been fights, jealousy, feelings hurt, laughter, and tears.

And I can't say I would give up one day of the time I spent with any of you.

Some of us will cry that night,
some of us won't.

Some of us hate to see our class separate and some don't.

But regardless of what happens
graduation night,
The Class of '85 will go out right.
